Graphic Designer & Web Developer

Mateo Stabio is a versatile freelance designer based in Montreal. He works as a graphic designer and web developer by day and is a loving, caring father by night. He is a self-taught videographer and photographer, and has experience working with local businesses to help improve their presence on social media. After finishing his DEC at John Abbott College in graphic and web design, he wanted to expand and grow as a designer. He likes challenging himself to think outside the box by exploring different mediums in order to avoid feeling repetitive and to remain inspired.
